Washington D.C. Trip
by: Debbie Burkhart

As everyone knows the 8th grade class is going to Washington D.C. We are going by bus and leaving Tuesday morning at 7:00 a.m. and returning Friday evening, March 28th.

We have done numerous fund raising activities. We have sold magazines and records, a Value Crusader box and Nutrilite Bars. We have raised a lot of money for this trip.

Some of the places we will be visiting are: the White House, the Smithsonian, the U.S. Capitol Building, Mt. Vernon. We also will be having our pictures taken with the Senators from Ohio. We will be visiting many interesting places.

I think that the 8th grade class is really looking forward to our trip to Washington D.C.

With six seconds left in the game Todd Welsch went to the line. With his knees shaking and his hands sweating he sunk the first one. The game was tied! He set again, the second one swished, and we were ahead 41-40! Garaway took it down-5...4...3...the kid shot it off the backboard 2...1... The buzzer went off! It was all over. WE BEAT GARAWAY!

Interviews:

Connie Doidge

by: Bill Reynolds

Today I had the pleasure to interview Connie Doidge. Connie told me she feels excited all day before a game. When she's on the basketball court, she feels she is doing something important in her life. Connie plays guard, and she likes her position. Connie likes other sports besides basketball, especially football.

Sandy Edwards

by: David Bleininger

Sandy Edwards, who is 14, lives on 11th Street. She is a basketball player. She likes playing basketball. She said that the most exciting part of the game is when it is tied towards the end of the game. She is a guard and she likes her position. Sandy thinks the practices aren't really hard, but the suicide drills aren't especially fun. Girl basketball is almost like boy's basketball.

Coach Finds Reward In Wrestling Program

by: Patty Brown

Mr. Doug Strickmaker says that coaching the 7th & 8th grade wrestling teams is a worthwhile job regardless of the hours it cost. "Most of the varsity wrestlers did wrestling in the 7th and 8th grade wrestling program, and it's really worth seeing the improvement over the years," he said.

The coach said his team has a record of (1) win and (4) losses this year, with 2 (two) away matches remaining.

I asked him what his plans for next year were. He replied, "Each year I seem to get a few 8th graders who are out for the first time. So next year will probably be much the same as this one, as the basic fundamentals must be taught."

The coach has no favorites on his team. He said, "I couldn't really pick a most valuable wrestler and I wouldn't try. Each wrestler at his level is valuable to the program, since his future with Dover wrestling starts here." Mr. Strickmaker would like to see more wrestlers starting in 7th grade. "I'm just hoping that some year I'll get a few 7th graders out and that they all come out the following year. Experience is important."

Dave Maize

by: Brock Rennicker
Lenny Umpleby

I talked to Dave Maize and asked him if he thinks he is one of the better wrestlers on the team. He replied, "YES!" I asked him if he thinks Mr. Strickmaker is a firm handler of the wrestling team, and he answered, "He's firm enough to make us work hard."

When asked about the Ridgewood meet, to see if he thought the wrestling team can beat them, he replied, "I don't know." Then I asked, "Who do you think is the best wrestler in your weight class?" He put a slight grin on his face and answered, "Me! I'm the only wrestler in the 90 lb. weight class."

See, wrestling isn't that bad of a sport. You ought to try it! You might like it!!

8th Grade Gymnast Faces Rugged Career

by: Patty Brown

Jodi Bitikofer, an 8th grader at Dover Middle School, has already put in six rigorous years of gymnastic training. In that time she has broken a wrist, foot, stretched ligaments, and suffered a concussion. Jodi takes these injuries as a calculated risk and doesn't let them keep her from going out to reach the top in this demanding sport.

On Feb. 10th Jodi will be teamed with 5 other top girl gymnasts, called the Gymnasticts of Ohio. This team competes against the Canadian National Olympic Team.

Jodi has dreams of competing in the Olympics, but at this point the prospect is too far away. However, Jodi does have definite plans for competition this year. In April she will represent Gymnasticts of Ohio in New Orleans. In June she and 12 girls will fly to Europe to compete with the Gymnasts in Belgium, Paris, Germany and France.

Mr. Daniels

by: Shelly Ickes

Mr. Daniels has been teaching at Dover for seven years. He and his wife, Marlene, have an eight year old daughter, Lori, and a four year old son, Ryan. He attended school at Midvale High in Midvale, Ohio, and college at Fairmont, W. Virginia.

Some of "Mr. D's" free-time activities include reading and writing. He likes to write poems, songs, and short stories. Then, of course, there's the Daniels and Rinehart Band.

The band is in its fourth year and it came about in an unusual way. Terry Rinehart and Mr. Daniels used to spend time "jamming" together. Neither were thinking seriously about performing; they just liked to sing and play their guitars together.

One day Terry and Tom went over to Monroe Mall to see about getting Terry a new guitar. On the way out they stopped at the Stein House, where some of the customers talked them into playing a song. They weren't really prepared, but the people loved them anyway. A few weeks later the manager asked them to play on Monday nights. Tom and Terry played there for 8½ months.

The two of them played as a two-piece band for over a year. When they were asked to play at the Delphia in New Philadelphia, they decided to add a drummer, Ted Harrison. Rick Gray, who played keyboards, joined the band about a year later.

The most interesting experience by far, says Mr. Daniels, was the recording of their songs at a studio in Chillicothe, Ohio. It took them 20 hours with one 3-hour break to record four songs. Music has played an important part in Mr.

Cafeteria Food

by: Diana Kurtz

Everyday our cooks feed about 1,000 to 1,100 people. It takes them 74 hours to make the food and clean up. Most of the hours go to the clean up, because they have to make sure the equipment is spotless and locked up. They make the cookies and cakes ahead of time, plus the final preparations during the day to finish things up takes up a lot of time.

The cooks make some of the food from scratch, such as the sauce for spaghetti, the cookies, and the cakes.

They are required to give us 2 oz. cooked meat, 3/4 cup fruit or vegetables, 1/2 pint milk, and 1 slice of bread in Type A line, although they give us 2 slices of bread plus butter. Their hamburger does not have soy bean in it. They buy their meat fresh.

While feeding High School students, the cooks always save out enough food for the Middle School. Sometimes it doesn't seem like we will have enough.

Although some people don't like the school food, the cooks work hard and put many hours of hard work into it so that we might have a hot lunch.

Spelling Bee

by: Steve Cox

On Thursday, Feb. 7th, the 7th and 8th grade spelling bee took place in Room 319. In this spelling bee anyone could sign up if they wanted to, so there was a large turnout. After a couple of rounds only a few people went out, and when it got to the harder words they were going down like flies. When the final 10 were left, they still kept on to see who would win. When the final 2 were left it took about 15 minutes to see who would win, and then they found a winner. It was Chris Fisher in 1st place and Kyle Miller in 2nd place.

Congratulations to the both of you!
